

The Invisible

Written by Gurung Puja

Once upon a time, there was a beautiful girl named "Ayano". She was a high school student. She had a crush on a boy named "Taro".

At school, Ayano was bullied because the other girls were jealous of how beautiful she was. However, she didn't want to be bullied. One day, while she was walking her dog, she suddenly found a potion. She felt sad because she didn't know how to turn back to normal.

Ayano rushed back home. She tried to talk to her mother. Unfortunately, her mother couldn't see or hear her. Therefore, she went to her room crying. She said to herself, "At least those bullies won't beat me up. Since I'm invisible, I can do something fun."

Ayano went to the store, got some ice cream and placed the money on the counter. She went back home and grabbed some food from the kitchen. Then she went to the living room and watched TV. Her dad was surprised. He thought there was a ghost. He was so shocked that he fainted!

Ayano didn't notice and went to her room. She prayed to god. "Please turn me back to normal!" she said. Her tears started falling. Suddenly, she was back to normal! She felt so grateful to god. "Thank you!" She replied happily! She went downstairs and hugged her mom. She went to her dad but he fainted so she poured some water on his face. Luckily, he woke up. Ayano hugged her dad, too! "I'm so happy to be back!" she shouted cheerfully!

My Invisible Life!

Written by Nelisa Gurung (P.5)

My name is Nelisa Gurung. I am eleven years old. I can be something unique that no one else can be. I can be invisible. Here is a story of how I became invisible.

It started when I was five years old. I was on the way to school. I accidentally touched the electricity wire in the street. I woke up in the hospital. I didn't know what was going on because I was still small.

One day, when I was at home, my parents gave me a new doll. I clapped my hands when I received it. Later that day, I asked my mum for a sandwich, but she couldn't hear me. My mum asked loudly, 'Nelisa, where are you?' when I was right in front of her.

When I took a selfie, I couldn't see myself in the picture. I knew something was happening in my body, but I didn't know what it was. That's how I found out I was invisible. I was so excited to start an invisible life.

From that day, I started using my superpower and calling myself Superwoman. I used it for travelling and hiding when I played hide-and-seek. I love God and I always believe that God made me special because he thought I was the one. That's the story of how I became invisible.
